Eren is a dual-qualified solicitor with five years of experience advising on international arbitration and dispute resolution, specifically in relation to major projects and infrastructure, such as railways, substations, ports, motorways and offshore windfarms.

She has successfully represented clients in numerous international arbitration, mediation and dispute adjudication board proceedings, administered by a number of international institutions, including ICC, LCIA and SIAC. Eren acted as counsel and advisor in complex matters for or against government entities, state-owned enterprises and private construction companies on large-scale construction projects.

Eren has a deep understanding of critical construction matters such as delay, disruption, variations and defects. She is particularly experienced in communicating with experts and guiding them in accordance with the case strategy.

Eren is well versed in FIDIC-based and ad hoc construction contracts. She has acted for clients in drafting and negotiating complex construction and energy contracts.

Eren has also worked in close collaboration with funders and other law firms to find funding for arbitration cases against various African and Asian states related to major railway and investment disputes.
